SAN FRANCISCO FCU COLLECTS OVER 1 TON OF FOOD FOR SAN FRANCISCO FOOD BANK

San Francisco, Calif. (April 13, 2010) – San Francisco Federal Credit Union supported the San Francisco Food Bank during the month of March.

San Francisco FCU partnered with the San Francisco Food Bank to help end hunger in San Francisco by raising awareness to staff and members. The Credit Union collected over 3,000 items for families in need through a department contest held among staff. This equates to approximately 2,313 pounds of food. This alone will allow the Food Bank to distribute enough food for over 1,800 meals.

In addition, 24 employees of San Francisco FCU donated their time on the evening of March 30th to volunteer at the food bank to package beans and rolled oats for distribution. President/CEO Steven Stapp also took the opportunity that evening to present a donation check of $1,000 to the San Francisco Food Bank. The financial contribution, along with the food collected at San Francisco Federal Credit Union, will provide the San Francisco Food Bank enough food for nearly 5,000 meals.

Kay Chan, Fundraising Chair for the Food Drive, says “The department contest to collect food was a success! I knew we were going to raise a huge amount for the San Francisco Food Bank, but the final numbers blew me away. Thanks to all the team work from our staff.”

In San Francisco, 150,000 people struggle each day to feed themselves and their families. Established in 1988, the San Francisco Food Bank provides healthy food to alleviate hunger through three channels: direct distribution through neighborhood pantries, opening their warehouse to agencies to “shop” for selected foods, relief in the event of a citywide disaster or individual crisis. They partner with over 400 community organizations to provide food through senior and daycare centers, public schools, soup kitchens and other venues. San Francisco FCU has been a supporter of the SF Food Bank for numerous years.
